The National Prevention Toolkit on Officer-Involved Domestic Violence

April 22, 2013

Great news!

The National Prevention Toolkit on Officer-Involved Domestic Violence is now LIVE! This new FREE online resource is available to all criminal justice agencies and officers across the United States.

The National Prevention Toolkit includes two online training modules, a comprehensive resource site, and multimedia tools such as videos, posters, pens, and other materials that reinforce the message of the curriculum: "Preventing violence begins at home." Content in the National Prevention Toolkit includes:

Online Curriculum with Certificates of Completion

Training Module for all Officers including information on:

- Dynamics of Officer-Involved Domestic Violence
- Warning Signs
- Understanding an Officer who is a Victim
- Emphasizing Professionalism
- Why Reporting is Essential

Training Module for Supervisors with Risk Management Strategies on:

- Lautenberg Amendment
- Pre-Employment Screening
- New Officer Training
- Creating a Healthy Law Enforcement Culture
- Community Involvement
- Steps Toward Change

Resource Site

Join the National Effort Have officers in your agency log on and complete the training modules now available on the National Prevention Toolkit.

Our Help Desk is Ready! We are ready to help you implement this FREE online training into your professional development curriculum. Included you will find step-by-step instructions on how to log in and access this prevention curriculum with the generic username and password. Attached is a poster about the curriculum with help desk information provided. If you would like any of the free promotional materials that support this project, please call or email us and we will ship them to you.

NOTE: These are prevention tools and should not be used after an officer has committed domestic violence.

Please take a moment to review this information. Call us with questions!

Together we can save lives and careers. After all, Preventing Violence Begins at Home!

Sincerely,
