Swiss Have Answer to Juvenile Delinquency

There aren't many places these days where you can see "hundreds" of unchained bicycles parked overnight and weekends around train and bus stations" with no fear of them being stolen, but in Switzerland you do.

This small country has no juvenile delinquency and very little adult crime, according to writer Nino Lo Bello.

Why are the Swiss probably "the world's most honest people"? How do they "maintain a high morality at a time when every other nation faces the challenge of increasing crime"?

It's very simple, the formula goes back almost to the beginning of time—

"Swiss mothers and fathers retain a loving authority over their children. Youngsters learn to show respect for their parents. Each child is expected to extend courtesy to ALL grownups, no exceptions granted."

"The schools put into practice the theory that the classroom should impart more than academic knowledge. Teachers try to instill in their students the idea that society's interests are important and that respect for others and for the law is good."

Switzerland is a land of family solidarity. The Swiss youngster is expected to "share the toil in the home or on the farm and he soon learns that life is no easy assignment and that everybody must do his bit. This pulling together makes the Swiss family almost impenetrable to outside lures like the movies, the saloon, the automobile."

The outcome of this respect for parental authority is the children's "good manners, honesty and an attitude of respect for other people's rights."

A Swiss farmer, watching his wife administer a spanking to their five-year-old son, said, "We don't have a problem of juvenile delinquency. You see," he added, "we teach our children by starting at the bottom."
TAMPA — Hillsborough County Sheriff Malcolm Beard was host to 2700 School Safety Patrol Members at a training session to indoctrinate new members and refresh experienced members in accident-free control of students at congested school crossing zones. Sgt. A. Percy King, in charge of Hillsborough County Safety Patrol, along with Deputy Bill O'Malley and 23 School Safety Officers, conducted the half-day training session which was well supported by the Peninsular Motor Club and the Tampa Police Department. The top photo shows school patrol members observing the correct method of using flags at a crossing with adult assistance. In the lower photo are (left to right) Sheriff Beard, Temple Terrace Police Chief Horace Locke, Plant City Police Chief Bob Spooner and Tampa Police Chief J. P. Mullins leading the youngsters in the Patrol Pledge. The students also heard an address by Dr. Stephen L. Speronis, vice president of the University of Tampa, on citizenship and responsibility. Following the training session, Sheriff Beard treated everyone to hot dogs, chips, Cokes and ice cream.

LIFETIME AWARD
WEST PALM BEACH—Palm Beach County Sheriff Martin Kellenberger (left) expresses his appreciation to Florida East Coast News Company, represented by Mrs. Dolores Alpern and Mr. Sherry Jones, for a Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch donation of $1,500. The firm was awarded a lifetime honorary membership in the Boys Ranch Builders' Club.

RANCH ADMINISTRATOR HONORED
Harry Weaver, Administrator of the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch, is currently serving as president of the Florida Group Child Care Association, an organization composed of some 75 state and private institutions with combined enrollments of around 8,000 dependent, delinquent and retarded children. He was elected on September 23 at the Association's annual conference in Daytona Beach. Prior to that time he was vice president and for a short time acting president. A native of Vernon, Florida, Weaver holds a Bachelor of Science Degree from Florida State University and has taken graduate work in the field of corrections. He has been in child care work since 1951, except for three years of military service.
Above—News photographers record the final plunge of an old car that was pushed into the Trout River to give Sheriff Dale Carson’s “Diving Deputies” some realistic training in underwater rescue and recovery work. The Florida Times-Union photo on our cover was taken a split second later when the car hit the water.

At right—The “Diving Deputies” were also trained at the Riverside YMCA pool under the direction of Physical Director Ken Brock. In this picture they are learning to use snorkels and masks. Later they graduated to SCUBA (self-contained underwater breathing apparatus) diving.
JACKSONVILLE — When a car smashes through a bridge railing and goes into the water (like the one on our cover), or a boat capsizes, or a swimmer fails to make it to shore it's usually the Sheriff's job to "call out the divers" and recover the bodies of drowning victims.

To save valuable time in a situation like this—as well as to help relieve the anguish of the victims' survivors—Sheriff Dale Carson arranged to have a number of his deputies trained as SCUBA divers so that at least two underwater specialists would be on duty at any time of the day.

The first training session was held at the Riverside YMCA with Physical Director Ken Brock in charge. There were 11 deputies in this class plus four Florida Highway Patrol officers and they were given a rigorous workout which taught them how to cope with underwater hazards and emergencies.

The cover picture and the one at the left were taken when an old car was pushed into the Trout River as part of the training. Each diver had to swim down to the submerged car and recover some specific object from the interior.

SHERIFF CARSON HONORED BY JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

JACKSONVILLE—The Jacksonville Junior Chamber of Commerce presented Duval County Sheriff Dale Carson with a public safety award in recognition of his many safety achievements which include: organization of adult school crossing guards, riot control squad; water safety patrol boats; gun safety clinic and zone arrangements for faster emergency ambulance service. Presenting the award is Wilford Lyon, Jr. (left) while Duval County Patrol Chief W. F. Johnston (right) looks on. (Jacksonville Journal photo.)

Her Receptionists Often Wear Guns

Condensed from an article by Arthur Hayward
Of the St. Petersburg Times.

CLEARWATER—After 18 months in the Pinellas County Jail, Irene McDowell was making no attempt to get out.

Mrs. McDowell is the nurse for prisoners in Pinellas County Jail—who in her phrase, "can't get to their medicine cabinets."

Her own "medicine cabinet" is a gleaming and immaculate examination room on the fifth floor of the jail. It's like any other modern doctor's office. The only difference is that the receptionists sometimes wear pistols.

Mrs. McDowell sees the routine cases from 9 to 11 every morning—everything from loose wisdom teeth to the trusty who cuts his finger dicing potatoes.

The afternoon is spent catching up on records and visiting chronic or mental patients who must be kept in single cells.

When cases require a doctor's attention, County Home Doctor Michael Coffey is on call, and he makes a habit of stopping by each morning to have a chat with Mrs. McDowell.

Because illness can slow the wheel of justice if a prisoner fails to appear in court on his assigned day, it is Mrs. McDowell's job to see that they get there.

Mrs. McDowell also oversees the cleanliness in the kitchen and throughout the jail; and neither she nor Dr. Coffey can remember an epidemic.

After 18 months of tending the cuts and bruises and headaches of the assortment of drunks, worthless-check passers, and thieves who inhabit the cells of Pinellas County Jail, Mrs. McDowell dismissed the fact that they are criminals.

She points out that many are merely being held for trial and adds, "You could be here tomorrow yourself."

At least you can be sure of solicitous medical attention if you are.

State Director

TAMPA—Hillsborough County Sheriff Malcolm Beard has been appointed State Director of the National Sheriffs Association to represent his fellow Florida Sheriffs within the national organization.

The appointment was made by Sheriff Ralph Grimes, of Atlanta, Ga., President of the National Sheriffs Association.
DEDICATED ... of All Faiths Memorial Chapel, Bostwick Memorial Library and Nellie Gee Laws Memorial Building on October 2 marked beginning of the 10th year at the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch. It was founded October 2, 1957.

Excerpt from Dedication Address by Dr. Broward Culpepper, Chancellor of the State University System of Florida.

"In order to find happiness in this complex and difficult time a man must have an inner peace which leads to happiness.

"To acquire this inner peace he must find a way to hear the still, small voice of God. When he recognizes God he will have confidence in the laws of the universe, believe in the ultimate triumph of God's purposes, find assurance in trusting God and will want to relate himself rightly with his fellow man.

"These are some of the reasons why those who are developing this ranch for you and other young men to come, have erected this chapel, library and laundry, storage and supply building.

"The chapel will enable you to come apart to reflect on God — to study his word and learn faith.

"The library will give you an opportunity to know great minds who will share great thoughts and ideas.

"The Laundry, Storage and Supply Building serves to add to your physical comforts and needs.

"And so, as we dedicate these buildings today, we can be assured these three facilities will contribute much to your development in soul — in mind — and in body. How much is up to you.

"The future is yours — what will you do with it? Use these resources to be a MAN."
ABOVE — Exterior and interior views of the Chapel. Overflow audience packed it to capacity.

RIGHT — Rancher Robert Earley, who led the responsive reading, chats with Mrs. Lloyd S. Bostwick, widow of the former St. Petersburg police captain in whose memory the library was dedicated.

THE SHERIFF'S STAR
Sheriff Malcolm Beard (right) congratulates Capt. R. D. Ramsey (left) and Deputy J. I. Cacciature for creating a potent new weapon in the war against illegal drugs.

Beard's Board Is a Barrier To Drug Traffic

Tampa—It’s only a plywood board with some plastic containers mounted on it, but it promises to become a potent weapon in Sheriff Malcolm Beard’s war against illegal drugs.

Created by Vice Squad Captain R. D. Ramsey and Deputy Sheriff J. I. Cacciature, the board contains samples of the 155 drugs now on the U. S. Pure Food and Drug Administration’s “drug abuse” list.

The primary purpose of the display board is to familiarize deputy sheriffs and other law enforcement officers with the actual appearance of illegal drugs so they can recognize them instantly.

For this purpose Sheriff Beard plans to distribute enlarged color photographs of the board to law enforcement officers.

He also plans to use the board in crime prevention talks before students and local organizations.

Sheriff Beard's crackdown on illegal drug traffic is reflected in arrest records. They show that narcotics cases averaged two or three per year before Beard became Sheriff; and there were 21 arrests for narcotics violations in a recent 12-month period under his tenure of office.

BARTOW — Polk County Sheriff Monroe Brannen and his Deputies have always been adept at bringing in their man, but now their efficiency is even better — and they owe it all to Rex and Hans, two police dogs who have become the newest members of the “force.” Their total effectiveness was proven not long ago when “Rex,” whose handler is Sheriff’s Lt. Roy Willis, tracked and located a suspect and then kept him from running until he could be arrested. Deputy Ronnie Townsend is in charge of the other “canine deputy,” “Hans.” The two dogs and their handlers trained for about six months and the time was well spent, because they always “get their man.” “Rex” is pictured with Lt. Willis. (Photo by Paul A. Powell, Polk County Sheriff’s Office.)
