A Good Job Half Done

Point No. 1 – Most local law enforcement officers are grossly underpaid.

Point No. 2 – County and city government officials can't do much about it because of limited tax resources, and increasing demands for local government services

Point No. 3 – The State can help solve the problem by paying part of the cost of urgently needed salary increases.

Point No. 4 – Boosting salaries will enable local law enforcement officials to keep the good men they already have, and recruit others.

Point No. 5 – Better salaries will produce better law enforcement.

These are some of the points we scored in 1970 when the Florida Legislature established The Minimum Foundation Program for Local Law Enforcement. This landmark program which we helped to sponsor in the Legislature guarantees a minimum salary of $5,400 for local law enforcement officers; upgrades the salaries of officers who are already above the minimum; and obligates the State to bear a portion of the cost.

"A good job well done," we said, after the 1970 Legislature adjourned.

Now, however, we are beginning to realize it was "a good job – half done", because funds appropriated by the Legislature have not materialized, and the program seems to be in serious trouble.

clean, and the cabinet has declined to release the $912,500 appropriated by the Legislature for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Unless the cabinet reverses itself, the program will be locked to the launching pad through May and June.

And when the new fiscal year begins on July 1, what happens then?

The answer is in the hands of the 1971 Legislature, which goes into its annual 60-day regular session on April 6–

Bobby Brown

SUPER POLICEMAN

No matter where you live in Florida, there's a new "super" policeman in your community.

Although you can't see him, he is constantly riding "shotgun" with Florida's law enforcement officers.

He goes about his work so quickly, you may not even know he is on the job. But, give him information, and a little time to get it organized, and you can expect him to assist Florida's law enforcement officers in making life miserable for professional law breakers.

Like FDR, HST and JFK, this big chief is usually referred to by initials only: FCIC.

His "super brain" is in Tallahassee, and yet his "beat" extends across the entire length and breadth of Florida, from Pensacola to the Keys.

He has a memory that's out of this world — and a gift of gab to match. He can carry on 10, 20, maybe 200 conversations at one time, listening attentively and storing up information in his memory. Almost simultaneously he can answer multiple questions about crimes, criminals and criminal activity.

THE NEW LOOK

THE SHERIFF'S STAR

Give him the name of a person who has committed a major crime in Florida and he can "zap" back, in seconds, a complete criminal history.

Like the historical "hue and cry" in pursuit of lawbreakers, "Super" Policeman (FCIC) has a voice that can be heard throughout the land. Every Florida Sheriff and most of the Police Chiefs are able to talk with him, but he's not a blabbermouth. He will only talk to law enforcement men and certain other criminal justice officials.

"Super" Policeman is a "space age" computerized law enforcement-criminal justice-communications and information system for Florida's law enforcement agencies and officials. He is paid for totally by the state to assist law enforcement officers in performing their jobs. He is officially known as the Florida Crime Information Center (FCIC) and is operated by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

We are featuring FCIC in this issue because it promises to be one of the most revolutionary developments in crime fighting in modern times. FCIC is a product of many years of discussion, research and planning. Its roots reach back to as early as 1965 and extend into many agencies including the Florida Sheriffs Bureau (predecessor of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement), The Florida Highway Patrol, Legislative Committees, and local law enforcement agencies. Executives from all levels of law enforcement participated in its evolution.

Now, as it approaches full operational status, all Florida can anticipate reaping the benefits.

IN LAW ENFORCEMENT

BITS, BYTES AND BAUDS

To an old time law enforcement man, a bit is something a horse holds in his mouth; a bite is what you take out of an apple; and a bawd is a shady lady. But times have changed, and with a slight alteration in spelling, these are the terms computer technicians use nowadays when someone asks: "How fast will she go, Joe?" Baud refers to bits per second, but don't ask us how many bits to a byte. Our notes were garbled at that point. Anyhow, here are some pictures from the land of baud — showing (from left) FCIC key punch operators; the computer room (with a capacity, someone said, of over 330 million bytes); and the "do not disturb" sanctuary of the FCIC programmers.

FLORIDA CRIME INFORMATION CENTER

IS NOT "JUST"

AT LEFT—Just one "memory" unit like this will hold 20,000 "bytes" of information, which is equivalent to about 10,000,000 words.

BELOW—FCIC staff members have memories too. They can remember, a little sadly, when pretty girls on stepladders maintained the voluminous crime files. Now the files are stored in cold, inanimate computer memory banks.

Crime Information

Information about criminals is a perishable commodity. It's difficult to obtain, expensive to store, and it soon gets stale.

Sometimes when you need it the most, and need it in a hurry, it's not immediately available — like when you have arrested a suspicious looking character on a minor charge and you wonder if he's wanted somewhere else for a serious crime. By the time you find out, he could be "long gone" — and frequently that's how it happens.

Sheriffs and police chiefs have wrestled with the problem for centuries.

Matt Dillon kept a file of "badmen" in his head.

After the West was tamed, Matt got senile, the supply of "badmen" grew by leaps and bounds, and lawmen of lesser mental capacity resorted to stuffing tons of fingerprint cards, photographs and criminal histories into miles of filing cabinets.

For awhile this worked, but with the coming of the "jet age", criminals became more and more mobile — and filing cabinets became more and more obsolete. It was like trying to store a year's supply of perishable vegetables in an old fashioned kitchen ice box.

What law enforcement men needed was a massive "walk-in cooler" that could store millions of items of information in a small space, and spit them out at lightning speed, on command.

"Computers can do the job," someone piped up.

"But," said someone else, "who can afford them?" And the answer was pretty obvious. Computers were outrageously expensive. Only the largest law enforcement agencies with the fattest budgets could afford the luxury of "instant information" served up by these electronic marvels.

And that's how things rocked along, until some cerebral, if not lineal, descendant of the legendary Matt, hit upon the idea of one centralized battery of computers serving a large number of widely scattered agencies through a network of communications lines.

MEMORY" — IT'S ALSO A HIGH-SPEED COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM

The FBI, in Washington, D. C., put this idea into actual practice by establishing just a few years ago the National Crime Information Center (NCIC).

This computerized teleprocessing system connects state, federal and local enforcement agencies all over the nation to a Washington, D. C., computer center in which the FBI stores index information on wanted persons, stolen property and stolen vehicles.

Agencies on the network have terminals which enable them to talk directly to the computers and get answers in just a matter of seconds.

Following the FBI's lead, Florida now has a similar system known as the Florida Crime Information Center (FCIC) which is currently connected to over 225 state, county and city law enforcement agencies — and is expected to be serving some 300 agencies by the end of 1971.

FCIC is a service facility operated by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. It consists of a state-wide Data Communications Network and a computerized system for the storage and retrieval of information.

Computers located in Tallahassee are capable of operating a high-speed communications network over leased lines to all areas of the state. They are also capable of storing some tremendous amounts of data about crime, criminals and criminal activity.

Therefore, since the state foots the bill, FCIC gives each participating local law enforcement agency "for free" all of the benefits of having its own multi-million-dollar computer service.

Sheriffs and police chiefs, for instance, can put crime information into FCIC computers without going through any other agency.

Furthermore, the agency that puts information into the computer is the only one that can take it out.

BELOW—A message to the computer inquiring about the microfilm "address" of a fingerprint card brings a reply almost immediately on the terminal video screen.

FINGERPRINT FILES

Computers can't read, classify or compare fingerprints —

Not yet they can't, but, given a sophisticated, automated filing system to work with, they can speed up tremendously, the process of comparing fingerprints for positive identification.

So, to keep pace with FCIC's fast-moving computers, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement has "automated" its fingerprint and criminal history files.

First step was to "store" the entire fingerprint file (over 1/2 million cards) in cartridges of microfilm.

Next, each fingerprint technician was provided with a high speed cartridge-fed microfilm viewer.

Then each fingerprint card was given an "address" that includes the microfilm cartridge and frame numbers and this "address" was stored in the FCIC computer memory.

Now that this has been done, there's no need to search through filing cabinets for an arrested person's previous fingerprints. Instead, a fingerprint technician gives the FCIC computer the name, sex, race, date-of-birth or age, and the primary and secondary elements of the fingerprint classification, and the computer searches its memory. If the arrested person has been arrested previously in Florida and his fingerprints are in the microfilm file, then in seconds the computer flashes a message to a video screen giving the technician the microfilm cartridge and frame numbers of "possible" identifications.

With this information the fingerprint technician can select the proper microfilm cartridge, place it in the high speed microfilm viewer and proceed to the microfilmed fingerprint card for comparison and positive identification. This entire process takes seconds. The old manual method took several minutes and many footsteps.

After positive identification, the information on the "new" fingerprint card is automated and put in the FCIC computer, thus updating the arrested person's criminal history and making it available for the law enforcement community. The "new" card is also microfilmed and added to the master file.

ARE AUTOMATED TOO

One microfilm reel will hold all photos of all of the fingerprint cards in one filing drawer. FCIC will continue to store fingerprint cards, but searches for identification will be done by microfilm reader.

Fingerprint analyst compares fingerprints of arrested person with fingerprints on screen of microfilm reader. Computer previously told him the microfilm "address" of the arrested person's fingerprints in the FCIC files.

WELL...ALMOST

Automation is great, but there are some things that still have to be done in the same old fashioned way — such as classifying and identifying fingerprints.

When Sheriff Charlie Parrish Gets Suspicious—Look Out

TRENTON — Gilchrist County Sheriff Charlie Parrish didn't have much to go on.

A red calf without marks or brands had been sold to T. O. Thomas, of Bell, by Jerry Stevens and Richard Smith, of neighboring Lafayette County.

Stevens and Smith claimed they had bought the calf from Howell Walker, of Lafayette County, but somehow the Sheriff's instincts, sharpened by almost 14 years of law enforcement work, told him there was something phony about the deal.

In fact his suspicions prompted him to call in Fred Evers, an investigator for the State Department of Agriculture, and together they set about investigating.

Howell Walker confirmed that Stevens and Smith had bought the cow from him, but the Sheriff was still suspicious.

He and Evers kept on digging; and when word got around about the investigation, Smith got worried and came to the Sheriff.

He said he was ready to talk. He admitted his part in the theft of the calf, then identified the calf and took Sheriff Parrish and Evers to the scene of the theft in Lafayette County.

The story began to unfold. Stevens and Smith had taken the calf from a pasture in Lafayette County, and then, to cover up, had asked Howell Walker to say they had purchased the calf from him.

Once the facts became clear, Stevens and Smith were arrested by the Lafayette County Sheriff's Office and charged with cattle theft. Walker was also arrested and charged with aiding and abetting a felony.

Later, after pleading guilty, Stevens was sentenced to five years in prison; and Smith to two years. Walker was placed on probation for four years.

Now the case is history, but there's an important lesson for lawbreakers: Don't arouse the suspicions of Sheriff Charlie Parrish, because once he becomes suspicious he keeps right on digging until he gets the answers.

FCIC crime information is available to all participating agencies in the state, and that's not all. When an inquiry is flashed to the FCIC computer center in Tallahassee, it is automatically relayed to the FBI's NCIC computer center, in Washington, D. C.

Thus local officers will have available at their fingertips both state-wide and nation-wide crime information systems capable of responding to inquiries in just a matter of seconds.

"Now," said Florida Department of Law Enforcement Commissioner Bill Reed, "vital information is as near to the 'officer on the beat' as his radio and dispatcher."

FCIC also gives local law enforcement agencies an entirely new, faster-than-ever communications system. The computer terminals they use to talk to the FCIC computers can also be used to communicate with other agencies on the system, either singly or in groups.

This new computer-operated communications system has replaced the former state-wide law enforcement teletype system network known as FLECS (Florida Law Enforcement Communications System).

It is one phase of a growing Federal-State law enforcement information network which FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called "one of the greatest advances in law enforcement in recent times."

and fortunately our lawmakers are well aware of the problem.

They gave a strong indication of this during February's special session when they passed a resolution protesting the cabinet's failure to release funds.

They also know the state needs almost $6,000,000 to carry its share of the minimum foundation program during the coming fiscal year, and they are searching for suitable sources of revenue.

Senate Bill 268 introduced by Senator Lynwood Arnold would produce an estimated $10,000,000 annually in minimum foundation funds by adding $5 per point to traffic fines.

Other proposals are also under consideration, and we will be watching all of them with much interest. Furthermore, the Sheriffs Association will actively support all those that offer a reasonable solution to the funding problem.

I am giving this matter top priority in my plans for 1971. We must finish the good job that was started last year.

Ruling Awaited on Constitutionality of Budget Appeals

Sheriffs are awaiting a ruling on the constitutionality of a state law which allows them to appeal their budgets to a state board.

The appeal procedure came under attack after the State Board of Administration, sitting as the Board of County Officers Budgets, gave Palm Beach County Sheriff Bill Heidtman a budget increase the Palm Beach County Commissioners had previously turned down.

Smarting under the appeal board's ruling, the County Commissioners challenged the constitutionality of the budget appeal procedure, and the matter was argued before the District Court of Appeals, in Tallahassee, on February 10.

Although not a party to the court action, the Sheriffs Association has been watching with much interest. The Association's Attorney, John A. Madigan, Jr., of Tallahassee, represented Sheriff Heidtman at the February hearing.

1970 Was Another Year of Progress

1970 was another year of progress at the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch.

* A $50,000 watersphere with a capacity of 100,000 gallons was completed and put into operation.

* The Clay Mavericks Saddle Club, of Orange Park, provided materials, labor and equipment to build a horse show and rodeo arena valued at over $2,000.

* Staff members continued their in-service training through professional seminars and a new vocational-technical school course for cottage parents.

* The Ranch, after many years of effort, was licensed by the State to place youngsters for adoption and for foster home care.

Outlook Bright For 1971

It's 1971, and here we grow again.

The first major project on the horizon is the long-awaited Arts and Crafts building. It will cost approximately $100,000; and the money is already in hand as the result of an anonymous gift from central Florida donors.

Building plans are on the drawing board and actual construction is expected to begin in a few months.

Boys Ranch Executive Director Harry Weaver said the Arts and Crafts Building will not replace or duplicate vocational training Ranchers are receiving in the public school system. Instead, he explained, it will open up new areas of exploratory activity which will provide recreation and personality development.

lab; and facilities for handicrafts such as woodworking, leather work and art metal work.

Also under consideration as possible construction projects for the current year are: (1) A new residence cottage which will provide living quarters for 16 additional boys; (2) A "Canteen" or activity center for boys which will house a barber shop, a variety store, a snack bar, and an outdoor patio.

The proposed Canteen will replace a small rustic building which now serves the same purpose in a very limited way, but is totally inadequate.

One of the top priority projects for 1971 is to rebuild and improve the paved streets, but whether or not the work is actually done depends upon availability of funds.

Villa Plans Moving At Fast Pace

An excellent site has been found, a board of trustees has been appointed, a resident director has been hired, and plans are moving along at a fast pace for the Florida Sheriffs Girls Villa, sister institution of the Boys Ranch.

The Villa, a home for needy and worthy girls, was chartered on January 7, 1970, by the Florida Sheriffs Association. Like the Boys Ranch, it will be supported entirely by voluntary contributions.

Many thousands of dollars have already been received, and donations have been ruled deductible for income tax purposes.

The search for a suitable Villa site struck pay dirt late in 1970 when the Bartow City Commission offered a portion of Peace River Park. Bartow is located in the center of the state, close to good educational facilities and necessary professional services. The 125-acre park is located two miles east of the city, and is owned by the city. It includes two small lakes suitable for boating or water skiing, a playground, an outdoor amphitheater, picnic facilities, and a phosphate industry museum.

The city commission offered to make approximately 80 acres of the park available for the Villa, and the Sheriffs Association, at its Annual Mid-Winter Conference, January 25, 1971, tentatively accepted the offer subject to working out the necessary legal details.

At the same Mid-Winter Conference the Sheriffs Association's Board of Directors appointed 12 persons to the Villa Board of Trustees. They are: Marion County Sheriff Doug Willis, of Ocala; Pinellas County Sheriff Don Genung, of Clearwater (Chairman); Suwannee County Sheriff Buddy Phillips, of Live Oak; Columbia County Sheriff Harry Spradley, of Lake City; Clay County Sheriff Jennings Murree, of Green Cove Springs; Alachua County Sheriff Joe Crevasse, Jr., of Gainesville.

Mrs. Doris Hough, representing the Sunshine State Women's Chamber of Commerce, of Madeira Beach, original founders of the Villa; J. L. McMullen, of Live Oak; J. P. Hall, Jr., of Green Cove Springs; James Towey, of St. Petersburg; Dr. Doris Carson, wife of Jacksonville Sheriff Dale Carson; and Eddie Graham, of Tampa.

Boys Ranch Executive Director Harry Weaver has been appointed to serve in a dual capacity as Executive Director of the Villa, and he is working out detailed plans to build and staff the institution.

ALUMNI ORGANIZE

When the Boys Ranch celebrated its 13th anniversary on October 4, 1970, a group of former Ranchers got together and formed an Alumni Association, with Wally Edwards as the first President.

Other officers are Robert Knight, First Vice President; Bill Riggins, Second Vice President; and Bobby Malone, Treasurer.

FUTURE NEEDS OF BOYS RANCH

Ever since it was founded in 1957 the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch has been steadily growing, both in enrollment and in the quality of its program. It will continue to grow as fast as financial resources permit, and here are some of the important future needs:

- ★—New residence cottages, each at a cost of $100,000. Each new cottage will allow us to enroll 16 more boys.
- ★—An athletic field with lighting for night games — price tag $35,000.
- ★—Two staff homes at a cost of $20,000 each — an absolute necessity because of the remote location of the Ranch.

- ★—A remedial education unit (estimated cost $60,000) to give special tutoring to boys who come to us with inadequate educational backgrounds.
- ★—Additional staff members, particularly in the social service division now that the Boys Ranch has been licensed to place youngsters for adoption.

IT'S NOT JUST A FIRE HOUSE

At first it was just a fire house.

But now the handsome building pictured on this page (from a painting by Chicago artist Richard Lewis) is also functioning as a repair shop for the growing fleet of motor vehicles at the Boys Ranch.

It was planned this way from the beginning, and space for the repair shop has been available at the rear of the building ever since the fire station was completed in 1968 with funds donated by the Florida State Firemen's Association.

However, the repair shop didn't come into full use until 1970 because funds were needed to equip it, and a qualified staff member had to be found to supervise it.

It's going full blast now under the supervision of Norman Bernard, and many of the boys are becoming skilled in minor repairs and maintenance. They get a wide variety of experience too by tinkering with large buses and trucks, tractors, cars, jeeps, motorized go-carts and even motor scooters.

Harry Weaver, Executive Director, sees the repair shop as a money-saving venture; and also as an important part of the Ranch's vocational training program.

Aptitudes discovered and developed in the repair shop can be turned into future careers for many Ranchers, he explained, adding that eight of the older boys are now taking auto mechanics, farm mechanics and diversified mechanics courses at a nearby vocational-technical school.

YOU MIGHT CALL IT "CITY HALL"

Although it is one of the newer buildings at the Boys Ranch, the Joe and Frances Diaz Administration Building is already packed to the hilt with staff — and stuff. All of the record keeping, purchasing, planning and promotion are concentrated here. One wing is devoted to the important activities of the social service department; another wing houses the staff members who plan and supervise day-to-day activities. In effect, this is "city hall" — a very important facility in the growing Boys Ranch community. (Painting by Richard Lewis, Chicago artist)

Number One Need Is Still — Operating Funds

New buildings, new streets, a new athletic field, new tractors, new trucks — you name it, the Boys Ranch needs it.

But the number one need is, and always has been, operating funds — in other words, cash to buy the essentials of the boy raising business: food, clothing, education, shelter, professional care.

Most donors, especially those who give large gifts, want to see their money invested in lasting, tangible things such as buildings, equipment and new facilities.

This is fine, because the Ranch is constantly expanding, and new facilities are always needed.

$1 PER PERSON, PER DAY SOME VACATION!

A winter vacation in the North Georgia mountains for $1 per day, per person?

Yes, it's possible when you live at the famous Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch, and you happen to run into generous, hospitable people.

A group of boys and their house-parents went on the mountain trip in late December and were provided with a cottage free of charge at Vogel State Park by Superintendent Alex Brock.

Twice during their trip they were given a full tank of gas for their station wagon by Wilson's Gulf Service Station, at Perry, Georgia.

This was only one of many trips the boys took during 1970, and it was typical of the warm hospitality they always encounter wherever they go.

But, what good are new buildings and equipment without cash to maintain, staff and operate them?

Operating funds are essential, and the Ranch — like John Q. Citizen — is constantly stretching its dollars to cover the rising cost of living.

Food is more expensive. Clothing is more expensive. Staff salaries are going up. The cost of education is on the rise.

Furthermore, in these troubled times, the problems encountered in raising boys are more acute and diverse. This requires a staff with more experience and professional skill. It also requires a higher staff-member-per-boy ratio to provide closer supervision.

Problems come and go, but one thing remains unchanged at the Boys Ranch. The number one need is still, and probably always will be, operating funds.

Scholarship $$$ Are Needed Too

Every Rancher who qualifies for and wants a college education is going to have an opportunity to get one.

This has always been the policy at the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch, and we will continue to keep it in effect.

But, here's the rub.

The Ranch is growing, the cost of raising boys is growing, and the cost of educating boys is going up, and the number of boys who qualify as "college material" is steadily increasing.

There are four Ranchers in college at the present time, and the Ranch is spending approximately $8,000 a year to keep them there. Whenever possible these young men find jobs to help support themselves, but nevertheless higher education is an expensive proposition.

The Ranch has funds set aside for college scholarships, but these funds are not sufficient to meet the anticipated demands for future years.

There is an urgent need for scholarship funds.

If you would like to do your part to help keep some deserving boy in college, please contact Mr. Harry Weaver, Executive Director, Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch, Live Oak, Florida.

RANCHERS IN COLLEGE

RANCH RANKS HIGH IN HORSEMANSHIP

Newspaper Is By Ranchers For Ranchers

The Boys Ranch has its own newspaper, "Ranch Doin's", which is circulated on the Ranch and is also mailed to former Ranchers and staff members.

In the beginning it was mimeographed. Now it is a printed periodical, and the printing is done by Mid-Florida Printers, of Lakeland, a firm operated by former Rancher Wally Edwards and his brother Floyd.

Wally is employed full-time as a Polk County Deputy Sheriff, and printing is a sideline.

ALWAYS A WAITING LIST

At the end of January, 1971, the Boys Ranch had 40 applications for admission under consideration.

RANCH HAS IT'S OWN RADIO STATION

Ranch Staff Is Constantly Being Upgraded

The skills and know-how of the Boys Ranch staff are constantly being upgraded through training seminars and vocational courses.

During the 1970-71 school term staff members attended a new course in Group Child Care at the Suwannee-Hamilton Vocational and Technical Adult Training Center, in Live Oak.

The course was taught by Mrs. Betty Strayer, wife of Boys Ranch Program Director Jim Strayer. She has a Masters Degree in Social Work from Florida State University, and is a member of the National Association of Social Workers.

Three other members of the Ranch staff have masters degrees in social work. Many lacking academic credentials are well qualified by virtue of diversified experience.

Each year the Ranch holds a five-day training seminar for staff members conducted by a leader from the Group Child Care Consultant Service of the University of North Carolina.

These seminars include individual conferences with supervisors, group sessions with staff members, and a professional evaluation of the Ranch program.

It Really is a Homelike Place

"Homelike" is not a word we use loosely in describing the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch.

There definitely is a homelike atmosphere.

We planned it that way, and we are doing everything possible to keep it that way.

The boys live in residence cottages, with a married couple assigned to each as "cottage parents". These staff couples perform all of the functions of parents, from bandaging a cut knee to helping with school homework, and the boys call them "mom" and "pop".

For occasional privacy, each set of cottage parents has a small private apartment within the residence cottage. However, to all intents and purposes, they live with the boys and are always available to them.

Warm relationships develop between boys and staff members; and experience has shown they last long after the boys grow to manhood and leave the Ranch.

AT LAST — THE LONG-AWAITED ARTS & CRAFTS BUILDING

We waited a long time, and finally, through the generosity of anonymous Central Florida donors, funds are now available for this $100,000 Arts & Crafts Building. Plans are being prepared by Harry A. MacEwen, Tampa architect, and construction is expected to be completed this year.

IT'S NOT EXACTLY HOME SWEET HOMEWORK

No, Siree, doing homework is not a popular pastime at the Boys Ranch, but it's one of those inevitable things and the boys soon learn to accept it as a nightly routine. Staff members are available to give them special tutoring, when necessary. Mrs. Elaine Guderyhan was in charge of this particular session.

The Annual Mid-Winter Conference of the Florida Sheriffs Association, held in Tampa, January 24-27, was an outstanding success. In fact, in every way . . .

Tampa Was Terrific!

BUSINESSWISE

A Sheriffs Association Conference is many things. At times it resembles a big family reunion with all segments of the law enforcement community getting together to talk shop. At other times it's like a trade fair featuring the latest in law enforcement tools and techniques.

Suwannee County Sheriff Buddy Phillips (right) wants to know about the durability of Harold Wasser's jailhouse dinnerware.

Attorney General Robert Shevin (photo at left) was the featured speaker at a luncheon meeting. Head table guests pictured below included (from left, top photo) State Rep. Elvin Martinez and State Sen. Louis de la Parte, Jr., both of Tampa; Hillsborough County Jail Chaplain Fred Forney; Hillsborough County Sheriff and Mrs. Malcolm Beard, the conference host and hostess; and State Rep. Quillian Yancey, of Lakeland; (from left, lower photo) State Sen. John Broxson, of Gulf Breeze; State Rep. and Mrs. Ed Blackburn, Jr., of Tampa; State Rep. Paul Danahy, Jr., of Tampa; and State Sen. Ray Knopke, of Tampa.

Professional panel discussions on wiretapping, bomb threats and drunken drivers were program highlights. Sheriff Malcolm Beard (at podium) presided at all three.

Highlights on the fun side included a dinner cruise on the motor vessel "Tom Sawyer" (docked and ready for boarding in the photo at right); a trip by bus to famous Busch Gardens; an outdoor steak fry at Sheriff Beard's ranch; and a brunch and cosmetics demonstration for the ladies. That's Minnie Thompson, wife of Lee County Sheriff Flanders Thompson, with the white mink stole she won at the brunch. It was awarded to her by Sarah W. Minturn, representing Koscot Interplanetary Inc.

Alachua County Sheriff Joe Crevasse, Jr., (left) was installed as Secretary-Treasurer; and Leon County Sheriff Raymond Hamlin as a member of the Board of Directors. They are pictured with their wives at the installation banquet.

A lifetime honorary membership in the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch Builders Club was presented by Ranch Executive Director Harry Weaver (left) to the Distilled Spirits Wholesalers of Florida, Inc., represented by Dave Dick, of Tallahassee. The presentation was made in recognition of large gifts to the Boys Ranch.

Much of the credit for a successful four-day meeting belongs to Sheriff Beard's "Majors", the top Hillsborough County Sheriff's Department executives who teamed up with him to form a hard working, efficient conference committee. They are, from left, Maj. R. D. Ramsey, Maj. John A. Salla, Maj. Walt Heinrich, Maj. John Kirk, Jr., Maj. Jack Dempsey, and Maj. Al Perotti.

FLORIDA'S GOVERNMENT

Reubin O'Donovan Askew

The Hon. Reubin O'Donovan Askew was elected the 37th Governor of the State of Florida on November 3, 1970, at the age of 42.

Governor Askew entered the 1970 Democratic Primary as a decided underdog against Senate President John E. Mathews, Attorney General Earl Faircloth, and Miami Mayor Chuck Hall.

Surviving the primary, he defeated Mathews in the second primary and went on to oust incumbent Republican Governor Claude R. Kirk, in the November General Election.

Governor Askew was born in Muskogee, Oklahoma on September 11, 1928. He was one of six children.

In 1937, his family moved to Pensacola, where he entered the Escambia County Public School System. After school hours he learned to assume responsibility by working to help support himself and the family. He was only nine years old then.

When he graduated from high school at 17, he entered the Army as a private in the paratroopers and advanced to the rank of sergeant.

At Florida State University he continued his military career by joining the ROTC; and launched his political career by getting elected president of the student body. He graduated with a BS degree and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Air Force.

After two additional years of active duty in the Air Force, Captain Askew was admitted to the University of Florida Law School. In 1956 he received his LLB degree.

He began his public service career by accepting an appointment as Assistant County Solicitor of Escambia County. He was elected to the Florida House of Representatives in 1958; and to the Senate in 1962. He continued to serve in the Senate until he was elected Governor.

His many honors include selection by Florida Jaycees as "One of Florida's Five Outstanding Young Men," 1960; and selection by the Legislative Press Corps as "One of the

TIME FOR A CHANGE

As public officials get older, and the ravages of time play havoc with their statesmanlike profiles, they become more and more reluctant to give us up-to-date photographs for this special yearbook edition.

Consequently, it was a pleasant surprise when one of these "old pros" voluntarily, out of a clear blue sky, sent our editor a new picture "to take the place of the one from my high school annual."

"I think," he added, "this might be an appropriate time to tell you about the fellow who stopped me on the street the other day and said: 'Ed, while I have never met your son, I voted for him in the last election'."

Ed, it just so happens, has no son, but he has had some thoughts about that old picture he's been using.

Reorganization—"The Big Squeeze"

The Reorganization Act of 1969, required by Florida's 1968 Constitution, completely restructured the executive branch of state government by squeezing almost 200 old boards and agencies into 23 new departments. To answer the question "Who Went Where?" we have cross-indexed the old and the new. In Index A the new departments have been given code numbers. In Index B the old boards and agencies are listed in alphabetical order with code numbers designating the new departments to which they were transferred.

GOVERNMENT

The Lawmakers

The Florida Legislature, composed of the Senate and House of Representatives, is the lawmaking branch of our government. It meets annually in the Capitol, in Tallahassee, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in April. The Legislature also holds extraordinary or special sessions. The Governor can call one of these sessions; or the Legislature can call itself into one of these sessions. Senators are elected for four-year terms. Representatives for two years.

Hon. Wilbur H. Boyd, President pro Tempore

Hon. Jerry Thomas, President of the Senate

SENATE OFFICIALS

WHO'S WHO IN THE SENATE

Members of the Florida Senate are listed in two ways — first in alphabetical order by name; and then in numerical order by districts. If you are looking for a Senator and you don't know his name or his district number, perhaps you can identify his district by consulting the map on the next page. For more detailed information about members of the Senate consult "The Florida Handbook," by Allen Morris. It is available in book stores, or it can be ordered from Peninsular Publishing Co., P. O. Box 2275, Tallahassee, Florida.

IN MEMORIAM

ANDERSON

Four Sheriffs have answered the "final summons" since the last special yearbook edition was published. They are: Gadsden County Sheriff Robert L. Martin, of Quincy, who died February 27, 1971; Highlands County Sheriff Joe D. Keene, of Sebring, who died September 6, 1970; Walton County Sheriff Howard (Andy) Anderson, of DeFuniak Springs, who died October 28, 1970; and Bay County Sheriff M. J. (Doc) Daffin, of Panama City, who died on January 29, 1971. All of them had distinguished careers and the loss of their talents will be a great detriment to law enforcement.
