Identity Crisis On The Cover

There are many Floridas. There is the old Florida and the new Florida; the historic Florida and the space-age Florida; the tinsel-for-tourists Florida and the real, yet unreal, Florida of quiet cypress sloughs.

Florida is tin-roof shanties rubbing shoulders with chrome plated condominiums. Florida is lush, green country club turf hiding the remnants of a sharecropper economy. Florida is yacht club commodores ordering grits with Harvard accents; and good ole country boys complaining about Minit Markets that fail to stock pate de foie gras. Florida is a dozing fisherman in a leaky skiff being jolted awake by the careless wake of a $250,000 yacht.

Florida is contrasts and contradictions. Florida is a mid-winter night's dream that evolved into an identity crisis; and our Art Director, Frank J. Jones, has caught the essence of it all in his cover picture of Florida's tottering, threatened old Capitol overshadowed by the bold thrust of the new kid on the skyline . . . Florida's new high-rise Capitol.

CRIME VICTIMS DESERVE A BETTER BREAK

Because the 1976 elections produced an unusually large number of new Sheriffs (26), the Florida Sheriffs Association has been confronted with a special challenge to continue moving forward without faltering or drifting into dis-sension.

As the newly-elected President of the Association, I am facing this challenge with enthusiasm and anticipation, because I have already seen substantial evidence that our new Sheriffs are exceptionally capable and cooperative. They have demonstrated in numerous ways that they want to be on the Association team.

In December, 25 out of 26 new Sheriffs attended an orientation seminar held in Tallahassee by the Sheriffs Association; the other was ill and could not attend. Otherwise, we would have had 100 percent attendance.

In January, a large majority of the newcomers attended the Annual Mid-Winter Conference of the Sheriffs Association, in Lakeland, and took an active part in the proceedings. In fact, they contributed substantially to the success of the conference.

In February, although they were deeply involved in the complex job of taking over and reorganizing 26 Sheriffs' Departments, many new Sheriffs demonstrated their loyalty by attending a long, tiresome meeting of the Association's Legislative Committee.

For me, these incidents provide strong evidence that we are going to continue to have a closely-knit, hard-working organization dedicated to dealing with the always complex problems of law enforcement.

There are signs, too, that the Association will not merely maintain its status quo during 1977, but will forge ahead in new and progressive directions.

As Sheriffs, we are delegated the authority and responsibility of Chief Law Enforcement Officers in our counties. With this in mind, we must all strive to give our counties the best law enforcement available. We should constantly provide constructive input into the Criminal Justice System, a system in dire need of improvement, and one that is vital to our form of government because it is the institution charged with direct responsibility for the prevention and control of crime.

The fact remains that many citizens and legislators do not understand how the system works. With this misunderstanding, they have sometimes blamed law enforcement officers for circumstances and conditions beyond their control.

Each year, millions of people are victims of crimes. It is almost impossible to estimate the dollar amount, much less the physical pain and psychological trauma, associated with crime. Crime affects the quality of life of every Floridian. I believe our current Criminal Justice System has some misplaced values which we have been remiss in adjusting. One area of Criminal Justice which is totally out of balance is the treatment of victims. I strongly believe crime victims deserve a better break.

Sheriff Jennings Murree, President

I am reminded of this when I see criminals getting free medical and dental care, counseling and education, while their victims get nothing.

I am reminded when I see society paying the doctor and hospital bills of the armed robber captured in a shootout, while the wounded victim pays his own way.

I am reminded when the child molester is sent to an institution for expensive professional counseling, while the government spends not a penny to comfort or rehabilitate the victim.

I am reminded when the "old con" returns to prison cheerfully because he knows the state will provide him with new dentures, eyeglasses and a long overdue hernia operation, while his long string of forgotten victims are required to pay their own physical and financial losses.

It isn't fair.

There is something drastically wrong with a system that not only ignores the needs of crime victims, but also requires them to pay taxes to care for, and sometimes pamper, the criminals who victimized them.

When a hunter kills a doe deer illegally, the court sometimes requires him to pay the cost of restocking the woodlands with another doe. But there is something seriously wrong with a system that makes no official moves to deal with the loss sustained by the survivors of a clerk gunned down in the armed robbery of a convenience store.

We live in an era of protest. The slightest provocation will send sign carriers into the streets, marching and shouting, but who marches and shouts for the rights of crime victims?

Who cares, other than the law enforcement officers who try to comfort them; the doctors who patch them up; or the bankers who try to help them cover their financial losses?

Crime victims deserve a better break, and there are many ways we can give it to them. Let's seriously consider giving government compensation to crime victims. Let's stop slapping criminals on the wrists and sending them back out on the street to continue their profitable criminal careers.

Let's get victims more involved in the proceedings of our criminal justice system:

- by allowing them to speak in court during sentencing proceedings, just as it is already customary to give the accused an opportunity to speak before he is sentenced;
- by including, more extensively, the victim's comments in pre-sentence investigation reports prepared for guidance of judges;

I endorse the death penalty

The following article by Bruce Smathers, Florida's Secretary of State, echoes comments he made to Sheriffs attending the Annual Mid-Winter Conference of the Florida Sheriffs Association, in Lakeland, January 27, 1977.

For many years, the death penalty for crime in the United States has been written off as something that people just don't do anymore. Now, we learn that society does do it. And it will continue in accordance with laws deemed constitutional by the Supreme Court.

We are hearing cries of many who label the death penalty barbaric, "cruel and unusual punishment," "morally unacceptable" and a litany of other catch phrases.

I cannot agree. For my own part, I endorse the death penalty as a deterrent to crime. I submit that it is going to be a deterrent to certain crimes, and that there are certain heinous, atrocious, and brutal crimes for which death is the only just punishment.

As one who was selected to help draft our existing statute, and as one who now sits as a member of the Clemency Board, I am not one new to the issue.

Basically, the Florida death law consists of two parts: the first is the jury trial to establish the guilt or innocence of the accused. The second is a separate trial to determine whether a jury recommends a convicted felon should be executed or sentenced to life imprisonment. This trial also considers mitigating and aggravating circumstances.

The final decision is upon the judge in light of the jury's recommendation. Another safeguard is that every case is automatically reviewed by the Florida Supreme Court, and, in addition to the courtroom decisions, every prisoner sentenced to death has his or her case reviewed automatically by the state Clemency Board, which is composed of the Governor and the cabinet officers.

After weighing all the facts and acting as the tribunal of last resort, the Clemency Board may commute the death penalty, or even grant a pardon by a vote of the Governor and three members of the Florida Cabinet.

It is a long and complicated process with many safeguards. No one can argue that the death penalty in Florida is decreed arbitrarily or unfairly. The convicted person has many ways to show his innocence and his need for mercy.

Since Gary Gilmore's execution, the debate in the United States has increased as to whether society should take the life of any individual. The debate will intensify over the next few months, and it reaches Florida as inmates on death row come before the Governor and Cabinet.

Admittedly, the death penalty is not going to prevent many crimes . . . but, in many instances, it is the only deterrent that society has.

Without the death penalty, the most severe punishment for any crime is life imprisonment. If a person is in the act of robbing another person at gunpoint for which the penalty is only a life sentence, what is to prevent the criminal from simply pulling the trigger and eliminating the eyewitness to his crime and the possibility that he will be caught, identified and convicted.

Rape is another example of a life felony where the criminal may decide it is in his interest to kill the victim and, thus, eliminate any witness to the crime. Without the death penalty, where is the deterrent?

I want to cite another hypothetical situation — that of a person already in prison for life, if there is no fear of capital punishment, what is to prevent that criminal from killing guards and other inmates inside prison walls? Since our nationwide, unofficial moratorium on capital punishment, prison killings have increased substantially.

At a certain time, I believe that a criminal by the very nature of his crime, forfeits his right to live in a society . . . and have the taxpayers divert thousands of dollars from helping those who need help . . . to house, feed and care for him . . . for the rest of his life . . . or until he is released.

As long as there are those who would perpetrate atrocious, heinous crimes on their fellow human beings, I believe we must have an appropriate deterrent and punishment. There is a certain point that society must take a stand for its own protection . . . and I believe that the State of Florida has.

As a member of the cabinet, I sit on our Clemency Board. It is not easy to judge a fellow human being's right to remain alive. It is a terribly heavy responsibility. It is the most burdensome responsibility of my career; however, it's a responsibility I intend to carry out. I will weigh each case individually on its merits and circumstances.

Any question of guilt or innocence must be reviewed. The nature of the crime and its effect on the victim will be considered. And, finally, we must balance the rights of the convicted person against the rights of the society whose rules he violated. I will recommend clemency only when I am shown extraordinary circumstances. Compassion is to be granted only when compassion is warranted.

Let me predict that there will be protests and lawsuits. Let me predict that there will be delays.

But let me also predict that the death penalty will be implemented. If there is any validity to either the concept of punishment or deterrence for the death penalty . . . it must be implemented.

TAKE A STAND

The Florida Sheriffs Association, during a pre-legislative meeting in Tallahassee, February 24, 1977, approved, by unanimous vote, the following three-part position statement:

I. ON THE BURGLARY CRIME RATE

The Florida Sheriffs Association is strongly in favor of a proposed bill to give a minimum mandatory sentence of one year, without parole, for convicted burglars. (Senate Bill 118)

- * Burglaries constitute one of Florida's major crime problems.
- * Florida's 1975 burglary rate of 2,349.6 per 100,000 inhabitants is third highest in the nation, and only slightly behind Arizona (number one) and Nevada (number two).
- * The chances for burglars getting away with their crimes are exceptionally high. Only 18% of the burglaries reported nationwide in 1975 were "cleared" by arrest. Only one other crime, auto theft, had a lower rate (14%).
- * Burglars top the FBI's list of repeaters. Uniform Crime Reports for 1975 show 81% of the burglars released in 1972 were rearrested for burglary within four years.
- * Mandatory sentences will have a deterrent effect on the burglary crime rate, just as they have already had on armed robbery. Florida's rate for armed robberies dropped 21.4 per cent in 1975, and 38.5 per cent in the first six months of 1976 after a 1975 law backed by the Florida Sheriffs Association gave three-year mandatory sentences, with no parole, to persons convicted of major crimes using guns. Arizona's five-year mandatory sentence law for firearms-related robberies is credited with cutting that state's stick-ups by 14%.

II. ON PLUSH PRISONS

The Florida Sheriffs Association sees a critical need for an appropriate investigation of the unreasonably high cost of building new jails and prisons.

- * Construction costs for new prisons and jails have been averaging $17,500 per prison bed, and costs are increasing.
  - * This high cost has, to a great extent, been brought about by unreasonable court orders, unrealistic government regulations, and an abnormal concern for the comfort of convicted criminals.
  - * Housing more prisoners more economically will:
    - A. Reduce the pressures on judges faced with the dilemma of sentencing dangerous criminals to overcrowded prisons, or releasing them on probation.
    - B. Reduce the pressure on parole and probation workers burdened with unreasonably high caseloads.
    - C. Enable Florida to continue to increase its prison population without placing unreasonable burdens on taxpayers.
- (The average rise in prison populations was 11% nationwide in 1975, and they continued to rise in 1976, according to Dr. Sherman R. Day, Director of the National Institute of Corrections.)

III. ON FREEING FELONS

The Florida Sheriffs Association is strongly opposed to a Department of Offender Rehabilitation (DOR) proposal to increase the annual rate of probation and parole as a means of reducing Florida's prison population.

- * The ratio of felons in state custody in prisons to felons under parole or probation-type supervision is already a matter of serious concern.

In custody, Feb. 9, 1977 . . . . . 18,648
Under supervision (same date) . 37,335

- * The present parole and probation rate is already dangerously high. In the 1975-76 fiscal year, 15,935 felons were placed on probation by courts. This was 65% of the felons sentenced. In addition, 2,495 prisoners were released on parole in the same period.

- * Odds in favor of convicted felons avoiding prison or serving short sentences are already extremely high. Here, in a Boston Herald American news report, is a case in point:

"In a recent eight-month period, the Boston Police Department's Anti-Crime Unit made 656 arrests for muggings and other serious crimes. Out of that total, 159 didn't show up in court and the cases of 54 others were dismissed.

"The remaining 443 persons (two-thirds of those arrested) were tried and convicted. But only 81 of them drew jail sentences; the other 362 were placed on probation or received suspended sentences. And, of the 81 who were sentenced to jail, 50 were freed on appeal, leaving a grand total of 31 who actually served any time.

"That means that only one out of 21 of those who were arrested and one out of 14 of those who were convicted actually went to jail for their crimes. The remainder — 95 per cent of those arrested and 93 per cent of those convicted — are out in the streets, free to commit another crime.

"These statistics, by the way, are not at all untypical. In fact, the odds in favor of criminals beating the rap seem to be considerably greater elsewhere in the country."

- * Crime represents a tremendous economic loss to law-abiding citizens and crime victims. This will be increased if we put more criminals "out on the street" merely to avoid building additional prison cells.

- * Reducing the prison population is likely to cause an increase in the crime rate. This happened in California, according to a news report from Sacramento which said:

"The crime rate in California has risen during the last six months (first half of 1976) while nationally the rate dropped, according to the latest figures released by the FBI. During that same period, the prison population in California fell sharply, while it rose in other parts of the country. H. L. Richardson, the state Senate Minority Whip, said the two figures 'just prove what we've been saying all along. When the criminals are in prison, the crime rate declines. As long as Governor Brown is determined to empty the prisons, crime in California will continue to increase, despite the national trend'."

- * Florida ~~Has~~ been increasing its prison population, and its violent crime rate has been declining.

Violent crime rate, 1975 . . . . . 688.5
First 6 months of 1976 . . . . . 655.6*
(*projected for comparison)

- * Punishment is an effective crime deterrent.
- * Rehabilitation unaccompanied by punishment has not been proven to be an effective crime deterrent.
- * Florida can afford to build more prisons, especially if the cost per prison bed is reduced to a reasonable level.
- * Granting of parole and probation should be determined by each criminal's potential for rehabilitation, and not by whether or not Florida can afford to put him behind bars.
- * Parole and probation risks are high. According to the FBI, 71 per cent of the convicted persons placed on parole, and 57 per cent of the convicted persons given suspended sentences or probation nationwide in 1972, were rearrested within four years.

Criminals not tolerated here

NAPLES — Collier County Sheriff Aubrey Rogers has chalked up another “first” in his continuing war on crime.

He and Naples Police Chief John Woodruff (see photo) are utilizing billboards in a rapidly growing program to warn criminals and vandals they will not be tolerated here. Jointly, they have also created a crime prevention task force which will alert citizens regarding crime problems.

This Help Stop Crime-Neighborhood Watch Program has been in operation for several months, and has been described as a factor in reducing the crime rate in several crime categories.

Designed to reach people of all ages, the program is being carried out in the public schools, and it also helps senior citizens to become more aware of the importance of crime prevention techniques.

Local, state and national agencies have been observing the success of the Collier County program, and a number of them have invited Sheriff Rogers to visit various areas of the United States to explain his activities.

“It may be a new twist to the old cops and robbers game,” he said, “but it’s working!”

In 24 Years — A 2300% Increase

FORT PIERCE — “It certainly is different now,” said St. Lucie County Sheriff Lanie Norvell after he swore in 120 employees at the beginning of a new term. He was thinking about 1953 when he had been sworn in as a deputy sheriff for the first time and the Sheriff’s Department numbered five people! No organization chart was necessary then. Now the department includes a patrol division, a vice squad and detective bureau, court bailiffs, jail personnel, business office staff, and 911 dispatch personnel.

Wet And Warm Welcome

CYPRESS GARDENS — It was a chilly day when Sheriffs and guests visited Cypress Gardens for a water show presented in their honor as a special feature of the Florida Sheriffs Association’s Annual Mid-Winter Conference. Polk County Sheriff Louie Mims, who hosted the convention in nearby Lakeland, said Bill Sims, Vice President of Attraction Operations at Cypress Gardens, and members of his staff “were very kind and cooperative in helping to make our trip to Cypress Gardens one of the enjoyable events of the conference.”

Governor

REUBIN O'DONOVAN ASKEW

The Honorable Reubin O'Donovan Askew was elected the 37th Governor of Florida in 1970 as essentially a tax reform candidate.

After inauguration day, he sustained this image by winning legislative approval of a referendum on a corporate profits tax. Then he campaigned for the tax from one end of the state to the other against what he called the "shadow government" of lobbyists and powerful special interests in Florida.

His tax reform won voter approval by a 70 percent margin. Taxes on household utilities and apartment rentals were quickly repealed. Loopholes were closed and other reforms enacted. He became the first Florida Governor reelected to a second full term when he easily won reelection in 1974 over Democratic and Republican opposition.

Governor Askew also has been successful in fostering improvements in law enforcement, prison reform, court reform, benefits for the working man, environmental planning and ethics in government.

He has been a stout defender of equal educational opportunities and was, as a result, awarded the 1971 John F. Kennedy "Profiles in Courage" award by B'nai B'rith. His fight to protect Florida's environment has been cited in several conservation awards, including the special award of the National Wildlife Federation.

As his reform programs gained national recognition, Governor Askew was selected to deliver the Keynote Address at the 1972 Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach.

Earlier honors included his selection by the Florida Jaycees in 1960 as "One of Florida's Five Outstanding Young Men"; the State Jaycee Good Government Award in 1971; and a number of citations as an "outstanding" member during his 12 years in Florida's legislature.

Born in Muskogee, Oklahoma, on September 11, 1928, Governor Askew was one of six children.

In 1937 his family moved to Pensacola, where he entered the Escambia County public school system and, beginning at the age of nine, worked in his free time to help his mother support the family. When he was graduated from high school at 17, he entered the Army as a Private in the Paratroopers and rose to the rank of Sergeant. He then entered Florida State University where he was a member of ROTC and served as student body president. He was graduated with a B.S. degree in Public Administration and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Air Force. After two additional years of active duty in the Air Force, Captain Askew was admitted to the University of Florida Law School. In 1956, he received his LL. B. degree.

Almost immediately, he began his public service career by accepting an appointment as Assistant County Solicitor of Escambia County. He was elected to the Florida House of Representatives in 1958 and to the State Senate in 1962.

In the Senate, he was Chairman of the Appropriations Committee and the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments and Revision and worked vigorously for fair apportionment in both the House and Senate.

His many community services include membership in the Western Division of Children's Home Society of Florida (Past President); Florida Association for Retarded Children (Past member, Board of Directors); the Farm Bureau, Escambia County Tuberculosis and Health Association, YMCA, American Legion, Heart Association and United Fund. He is a Mason and Rotarian.

He is married to the former Donna Lou Harper of Sanford, Florida, and the couple has two children, Angela Adair and Kevin O'Donovan. Governor Askew is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Pensacola.

JAMES H. WILLIAMS II

The Hon. James H. (Jim) Williams II is a native of Ocala and lived there until his election as Lt. Governor in 1974.

Born June 17, 1926, he enlisted in the U. S. Air Force upon graduation from high school in 1944.

After the war, and following the death of his father, Williams went into business, which included cattle, agricultural, limestone and mining interests in Florida and Georgia. After several years in the mining business, during which time the business was merged with five other companies, he liquidated his interests and, at the age of 36, returned to school. He attended Central Florida Junior College and, then, the University of Florida, where he earned his B. A. degree in political science in 1966.

Williams was elected to the Florida Senate in 1967, and was reelected in 1972 without opposition. He was a leading contender for Senate President when tapped by Governor Askew as his running mate in 1974.

Williams received the 1973 St. Petersburg Times "Most Valuable Legislator" award, based on a statewide poll of journalists and editors who covered the session.

Known as a strong fiscal conservative in the legislature, Williams has carried that philosophy over to his current post of Secretary of Administration, which he handles in addition to other responsibilities of the Lieutenant Governor.

Williams is married to the former Louise Oxner of Oklawaha and they have three children, Kerry, Laura Elizabeth and Jim, Jr.

If you are looking for a Senator and you don't know his name or his district number, perhaps you can identify his district by consulting the map on page 21. For more detailed information about members of the Senate consult "The Florida Handbook," by Allen Morris. It is available in bookstores, or it can be ordered from Peninsular Publishing Company, P. O. Box 2275, Tallahassee, Fla., 32302.

For more detailed information about members of the House, consult "The Florida Handbook," by Allen Morris. It is available in bookstores, or it may be ordered from Peninsular Publishing Company, P. # SHERIFFS OF FLORIDA

A Florida Sheriff derives his authority from the state constitution and is the chief law enforcement officer in each county. In addition to his responsibility for law enforcement and criminal investigations, the Sheriff is the keeper of the jail, an officer of the courts, and serves as a public protector in a wide variety of emergencies and disasters that do not involve any law violations. Sheriffs are elected to four-year terms in presidential election years, and they are not limited in the number of terms they may serve.

President's Message

— and by extending to all crime victims the special counseling and care we now sometimes offer to sex crime victims.

For years, hearts have been bleeding over the rights and privileges of criminals. We have made excuses for them; we have pampered them; and, in some cases, we have even tried to dress them up as legendary folk heroes.

At times, our efforts at rehabilitation have been so unreal they have become downright embarrassing to criminal justice practitioners. Let's get back to reality. Let's broaden the focus of our compassion.

When hearts are bleeding, let's let them bleed for victims as well as victimizers. Let's get the scales of justice back into balance. Let's give crime victims a better break.

Crime rate goes up when convict count goes down

SACRAMENTO — Efforts to reduce California's prison population are increasing the crime rate.

At least, that's the interpretation placed upon recent statistics by State Senator H. L. Richardson, minority whip.

He pointed out that California's prison population was dropping sharply while it was rising in other parts of the country; and California's crime rate was rising while the national crime rate was dropping.

These figures, he said, "just prove what we've been saying all along. When the criminals are in prison, the crime rate declines. As long as Governor Brown is determined to empty the prisons, crime in California will continue to increase, despite the national trend."

FBI figures showed the violent crime rate in California increased four per cent during the first half of 1976, but, nationally, the violent crime rate decreased by six per cent, resulting in a 10 per cent differential.

The California Department of Corrections said its figures showed a prison population of 20,830 in July, 1974; 19,825 in July, 1975; and 17,658 in September, 1976.

Dr. Sherman R. Day, Director of the National Institute of corrections, confirmed in a Kentucky speech that, "The federal prison system and every state system, with the single exception of California, experienced a sharp rise in prison populations during 1975, and continuing into 1976."

New reports said, the California Department of Corrections "rejected" Senator Richardson's claim that there was a correlation between the declining prison population and the rising crime rate.

Bomb business booming

If you are a Florida resident, your chances of being blown up or scared witless by bombs is increasing.

Figures released by the U. S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) show that "explosive incidents" (including bombings, bomb attempts, threats, hoaxes, explosive thefts, recoveries and seizures) increased 37.5 per cent in the Sunshine State, compared to a nationwide increase of 26 per cent.

The ATF logged 32 Florida incidents in 1975 and 44 in 1976.

If that makes you nervous, there aren't many states where you can seek a safe sanctuary, unless you move to Nebraska or North Dakota, each of which had two incidents in 1976 and none in 1975.

California led the nation with 232 in 1975 and 263 in 1976.

Now here's the good news: deaths and injuries from explosive incidents decreased nationwide from 69 and 326 in 1975, to 52 and 239 in 1976. Property damage from explosive incidents also dropped from $27 million in 1975 to an estimated $13 million in 1976.

ATF regulates the explosives industry and shares responsibility with the FBI for investigation of bombings. Other ATF missions include regulation of the alcohol, tobacco and firearms industries, and the apprehension of moonshiners, firearms violators and commercial gamblers who violate federal laws.

ATF investigated 1,682 explosive incidents throughout the nation in 1975, and 2,272 in 1976.

Explosive bombings increased from 716 to 734. Incendiary bombings almost doubled, from 132 to 251.
